Dear Families,

I do love Stambridge during the wintery weather. And I am sure Year 3 and 4 could help me write some descriptive sentences about the scenes presented to me each morning! Their descriptive writing this week has blown me away and Mss Tunley just shared Robbie's excellent writing; even more impressive considering he has been off with illness a bit this week as well. Fantastic attitude Robbie!

The Early Year's classroom has been invaded by a monster which has setup a home and left footprints across the carpet. There is some debate as to whether it is Miss Tunley or "the ogre, Mrs James"!

Thank you to Nautilus for their sharing assembly this morning, It's fantastic to see what you have been up to in school and hearing some children present who have only been in our school for a few weeks.

As part of Anti-Bullying Week and celebrating our differences, Isabella penned and shared the poem below with the school on Monday. I think you will agree, it is fantastic.

Enjoy your weekend

"All different - All equal"

This week is anti-bullying week and the theme this year is, "All different - All equal". Our Academy Ambassadors held an assembly at the beginning of the week to explain how important it is that all of us feel valued and included in school and to be able to be ourselves without fear of being made to feel different. They have also been responsible for giving stickers to children at playtime when demonstrating, "being a good friend". Finally, the Ambassadors are holding a competition which other children can enter by designing a poster or writing a story or poem to celebrate being different and the importance of being yourself. The closing date is Thursday 23rd November.

Forest School Update.

This week in Forest School lessons, Octopus and Nautilus have been working on building shelters. These sessions help develop self-esteem, confidence, communication skills and resilience. Through activities such as shelter building, the children learn to become independent learners.

Check out the fabulous photographs on the back page.

There have been pen licence applications this week but no licences have been awarded. Keep trying Stambridge!

Anti-Bullying by Isabella S

Always speak out for people who are being bullied.
Never just watch.
Talk to them and make them feel better.
Ignoring bullying is not good.
But stopping it is
Use your HEARTS values and stop it once and forever.
Listen and show respect and play with bullied person.
Listen and show respect always.
You have the power in you. Never ignore it.
